Data are retrieved from ERI Economic Research Institute's Library of nearly 7 million Form 990, 990PF, and 990EZ reports. Information, including reported compensation data, from these IRS returns is processed at the rate of 60,000 returns per month. This massive extraction effort began with 2003 returns and continues today, constantly feeding the database used in ERI's Nonprofit Comparables Assessor (<https://www.eriery.com/NonprofitComparablesAssessor?TrkId=477-243>) software.

USE OF OPERANDS

Basic Search Help

The search automatically invokes inflectional forms of the entered words. For example, a search for test will scan all SPIN programs for: test, tests, tested, and testing. This can be disabled by inserting a plus sign (+) before the search term, as shown below.

The search also has the ability pass the entered terms through an integrated thesaurus, potentially expanding the terms being searched for. For example, a search for cancer will scan all SPIN programs for: cancer, carcinogens, chemotherapy, tumors, oncology, and other terms. This can be invoked for all terms entered by simply enabling the Find Similar Terms checkbox, or by inserting a '~' before each individual term you want passed through the thesaurus. Note that enabling the Find Similar Terms checkbox will not expand quoted strings (e.g. "search term") via the thesaurus by default. You must insert a ~ before the quoted string, as shown below.

The search also contains a number of capabilities to build complex searches with various logic and grammar parsing. The commands can be combined together, along with parenthetical logic to dictate the order of operations, for building complex queries defining exactly what you are looking for.

Example Input	Description
Scientific research	Searches for records containing 'scientific' and 'research' or their inflectional forms
Scientific OR research	Searches for records containing 'scientific' or 'research' or their inflectional forms
"Scientific research"	Wrapping terms in double quotes searches for records containing the phrase 'scientific research'
Scientific -research	Inserting a minus symbol before a term searches for records containing 'scientific' and not 'research'
+scientific	Inserting a plus symbol before a term performs search after disabling expansion for inflectional forms
Scient*	Appending an asterisk to a term invokes a wildcard search: searches for records containing 'scient' and any suffix
&lt;scientific research&gt;	Wrapping terms in angled brackets searches for records containing 'scientific' and 'research' and ranks results by the proximity of the two.
~Scientific research	Inserting a tilde searches for records containing 'scientific' or its related terms in the thesaurus, and 'research'
~"Scientific research"	Inserting a tilde before a quoted phrase searches for records containing the phrase 'scientific research' or its related terms in the thesaurus
